Human Nature in the Line of Business

Human nature is on both sides of a business counter, and cannot be

Human nature is on both sides of a business counter, and cannot be ignored; and the nearer business approaches the patron as a benefactor, the more successful it will be. If there is no friendship in business, there should be everything honorable in it. The man who operates business on the principle that it is a game, does not always flourish; but the man who regards it as a square deal to the least transaction establishes himself permanently in the confidence of the trading public. There may be something cunning about trickery; but it has never proven to be dependable as a foundation for trade. Honorable competition in trade is the life of business; but dishonorable competition leads to results which are in effect criminal. Those who are always looking for cheap goods are fostering the worst there is in competition, for they inspire the cheapening of goods to the last degree. Looking for quality and a willingness to pay quality-prices is what keeps trade nealthy and less deceptive. It takes the man in front of the counter in co-operation with the man behind it to keep business what it should be. The shopper is to blame for most of the deception in trade because by his methods he invites it. The dealer who is advertising good goods at fair prices is the dealer who deserves popular support and who usually gets it.

and who usually gets it.

VOTE AT CINCINNATI.

Shanghai, Nov. 3.—Tonight, except for the foreign concessions, Shanghai is entirely in the hands of the revolutionists who captured the city late stoday. There was practically no resistance, only a few shots being fired. All the Chinese soldiers have joined the rebels, and the police and firement are apparently sympathizing with them, for they are wearing white hadges on their arms.

The revolutionaries is the relation of the revolutionaries are the first breach of neutrality and its effect may be far reaching.

Chinese Police Also on Guard. Chinese Police Also on Guard.

Throughout the night seventy armed Britons stood guard over the railway property. On the other side of the road meantime, were drawn up an equal number of uniformed Chinese police, wearing the white badge and claiming the right on behalf of the Chinese revolutionary movement to maintain order. It is said that the British guard is only temporary and that it will soon be withdrawn into the concession.

Fereigners Well Treated. After taking ever the arsenal the rebels burned the taotal's yamen in the mative city. The Associated Press correspondent covered the entire outlying section of Shanghai this afternoon but did not discover a single instance of disorder. Even in the native city complete order prevailed. Every courtesy is being shown foreigners. The soldiers, police and firemen are continuity on duty. The chops are closed tonight.

Natives in High Glee. While the action of the rebels was expected it was taken quickly. About four o'clock this afternoon a slight disturbance accoursed in the northern section of the city and shortly after-wards notices were posted throughout the native city, announcing that the 'military government of China" 'had taken over Shanghai. It warned the populace against disorder.

to Almignty God for the blessings of the year.

While during its course other countries have been and are the seat of war, and of all the sadness and suffering that war involves, our own land has been in perfect peace. For this, for the strong foundations of civil government that our fathers laid; for the long life of republican institutions in Connecticut as colony and state; and for free America, I recommend that on the date above appointed our people gather in their homes and churches to render reverent praise and thanks to the Giver of All Good.

Given under my hand and seal of the state, at the capitol in Hartford, this first day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand mine hundred and eleven, and the independence of the United States the one hundred and hirty-sixth.

Public Has Heard Only One Side. "The public has heard only the gov-"The public has heard only the government's side of this case," he added.
"I do not believe there are twelve men in this part of the country who at the end of the trial would declare that he was the man who gave poison to Avis Linnell." The remarks of the attorney were taken as indicating that the defense would not advance the suicide theory to explain the girl's death.

England Should Stop Such Horror.

'In this European war are such crimes to be committed? Cannot England do something to stop such horrors? In our civilization and times you can hardly believe it, but it is true, nevertheless. I myself have seen it, so I know.

Interest in Prayer Meeting. There was much interest tonight in the prayer meeting at the Immanuel Baptist church, Cambridge, which was expected to resolve itself into a legal meeting of the church and act on the pastor's letter of resignation, the text of which was made public toiday. The letter, which was dated at the Charles Street Juli on November 1 and which is addressed to Charles F. aeroplane circling over our position and directing the enemy's gun fire on us."

Rome, Nov. 3.—It is understood that Italy has abandoned the idea of occupying one od more islands of the Grecian archipelago as a measure of bringing the war to an end, and it is now considered that this would not bring sufficient pressure upon Turkey to compel her—to yield. It is more probable that a naval demonstration on the Syrian coast with the eventual occupation of some point will be decided upon.

Lieutenant Montague's message is dated November 2.

"My Dear Sir—I beg to herewith tender my resignation as pastor of Immanuel church. Strong in the consciousness of my innocence and firmly persuaded that God in His own good time will lift this burden from me, I nevertheless feel that I should not permit the shadow thrown across my life to darken the religious welfare of my church and its people, whom I love. I, therefore, deem it my duty to place the church in a position to select my successor. With my heartfelt thanks for the many kindnesses shown me by each and all of the members of my church, I am sincerely yours.

CLARENCE V. T. RICHESON."

CLARENCE V. T. RICHESON." At the conclusion of the evening prayer meeting an informal conference was held, at which it was decided that no action could be taken legally on the resignation tonight. A petition signed by seven parishioners will be read from the church pulpit next Sunday calling for a business meeting to be held on Monday to consider the matter.
